ESS COMMONS

The ESS COMMONS is on the Mezzanine level in East Foyer. It includes:
   The Book Exhibit, which is described on the back inside cover of the program.
   The Message Board, where participants can leave and receive messages.

Because too few job openings were submitted prior to program publication, the Employment Center will be suspended for this year. Please do check the Employment Services section on our website (http://essnet.org) for current postings.

GENDER-NEUTRAL RESTROOM

2nd floor, around the corner from Key 9.

COPIES OF PAPERS

The ESS does not sell or distribute papers or abstracts. Please contact authors directly to obtain copies of papers or to get further information.

SESSION AND PAPER LENGTH

Sessions are scheduled with the expectation that presenters and discussants will take approximately 15 minutes to make their initial presentations. This will allow time for discussion among the panelists and for audience participation.

Presiders should end sessions promptly to enable the following sessions to start on time. If there is no Presider listed, please appoint one from the panel for time-keeping purposes.

Next Year’s Annual Meeting will be at the Millennium Broadway Hotel
New York, New York

CALL FOR PAPERS

The ESS welcomes submissions, drawing on every methodology, addressing any and all issues of interest to sociologists. In addition, the 2015 meeting will have a special focus on “Crossing Borders.”

The “Crossing Borders” theme invites discussion of the social construction and social impacts of borders dividing individuals, groups, and nations. It challenges us to explore how borders are created, how they can change, and the complex processes shaping whether, and how, they can be crossed – and with what consequences.

One type of border is political. Millions of people have crossed international borders in the past half century to come to the United States in one of the massive population movements of our time. How has this enormous inflow shaped the lives of the migrants who have crossed borders --- and transformed social, economic, political, and cultural institutions and patterns in American society? What can recent research tell us, for example, about the pathways and barriers to immigrant inclusion in American society? How has the presence of new immigrants changed America’s racial order, injected new dynamics into politics, and altered community institutions and neighborhoods? How extensive and significant are migrants’ cross-border ties with their home societies? What, for immigrants and for American society, are the ramifications of large numbers of undocumented residents? Other questions emerge when we put the U.S. in a wider context and look through a comparative lens. What, for instance, are the causes and consequences of border crossing in different immigrant receiving societies, including north of the U.S. border and across the Atlantic?

There are many other important borders that reflect significant social divisions, raising questions about their nature, social effects, and degree of permeability. There are borders based on class, ethnicity, race, gender, religion, and age, for example, and borders dividing those involved in institutions and organizations from those who are not. The theme can also focus attention on the value of crossing interdisciplinary borders, not only as a way to highlight distinctive sociological approaches to theoretical and empirical questions but also to reflect on what we can learn from other disciplines.

We hope that scholars who participate in the meeting will bring a broad range of additional questions and approaches to issues raised by a focus on crossing borders. Although the ESS particularly encourages submissions related to this year’s theme, we welcome submissions on all sociological topics, drawing on all methods and formats, including:

- Individual papers (please include abstracts of 250 words or less; longer drafts are also welcome via email to the program committee)
- Wholly constituted sessions (with names and affiliations of all presenters)
- Thematic conversations (panels of two or more scholars engaged in debate or exchange)
- Workshops on specific topics and techniques
- Special sessions organized around prominent scholars and their work
- Roundtable and poster session presentations

Paper submissions and session proposals are due by October 15, 2014. Proposals for mini-conferences are encouraged by June, 2014. Questions should be sent to easterns2015@gmail.com

Theory in Action is an international peer reviewed journal in its 7th year published quarterly by the independent Transformative Studies Institute (TSI), a non-profit educational think tank committed to academic freedom, social justice, and scholar-activism.

BREADTH OF SCOPE IN PROGRESSIVE THINKING – Theory in Action is a forum for research on the interconnections between theory and action that promotes social justice, broadly defined. While valuing radical and unconventional ideas, the journal does not privilege any particular theoretical tradition or approach. We are interested in how theory can inform activism to promote equality and democracy.

AUDACIOUS – It seeks research that 'conventional' journals would reject because they are too radical or break with prior molds. We welcome ALL scholarship and seek to transform reactionary elitist academia into a space of true independent thought without retaliations, reprisals, or the compartmentalization of knowledge.

EXTENSIVE EXPOSURE – Theory in Action is available in hundreds of libraries all over the world. Your work will reach a wide community of academics, professionals, and activists, across a range of relevant disciplines.

HIGH VISIBILITY via our online platform and partners such as EBSCO/H.W. Wilson, ProQuest, and more – The FULL TEXT (not just an abstract) of your article will be accessible globally and will benefit from the very latest in online search and discoverability technology. You can be assured of the highest attention to production values.

REVOLT!
The Next Great Transformation from Kleptocracy Capitalism to Libertarian Socialism through Counter Ideology, Societal Education, & Direct Action

By John Asimakopoulos
Foreword Peter McLaren

“A welcome return to the center stage of political discourse—and action—for the working class, and class consciousness. A must read for everyone that actually takes working-class self-determination seriously.” —Ramsey Kanaan, PM Press

“A must-read book for all those interested in real change and social justice stripped bare of rhetoric and fantasy.” —Sarat Colling, Political Media Review

“Machine-breakers were once threatened with the death penalty if they took direct action against the systems of production that reduced them to poverty. Kleptocracy capitalism describes a similar juxtaposition: the facilitation of systematic corporate exploitation running alongside policies which criminalise individuals who steal in order to live. John Asimakopoulos’ critique draws inspiration from the history of working-class activism and, in presenting a clear and accessible analysis of the system’s operation, he also calls for direct action to combat it, passionately giving voice to a popular and deeply held view—that the status quo must be challenged.”

—Dr. Ruth Kinna, Editor, Anarchist Studies, UK

“In our increasingly crisis-ridden world, where the global working class is rediscovering its spine, we need visions of vastly different worlds to aspire to. And these visions must be linked to critiques of the existing society. Asimakopoulos combines these tasks in his latest book, Revolt! This book is recommended reading for anyone sickened by an increasingly violent, volatile, and boring status quo.”

—Dr. Deric Shannon, Transformative Radio

ABOUT THE BOOK: Asimakopoulos develops a theory to action model for working class movement building toward societies based on direct democracy. Revolt! analyzes the Great Recession showing neoliberal globalization is intensifying capitalism’s contradictions resulting in perpetual crises and collapse. Reviewing the labor and civil rights movements Asimakopoulos argues social justice can only be achieved through a new movement which, short of the immediate overthrow of capitalism, can obtain with direct action specific working class victories that will set in motion transformative change.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR: John Asimakopoulos, is Full Professor of Sociology at the City University of New York and executive director of the Transformative Studies Institute (TSI), an educational think tank. He has advanced degrees in and has taught sociology, political science, and economics resulting in a unique interdisciplinary perspective. His students include undergraduates and graduates from diverse ethnic, economic, and educational backgrounds who honor him for over 20 years with the highest teaching evaluations. His research is focused on social movements, critical theory, and international political economy. Asimakopoulos is author of The Accumulation of Freedom (2012), Social Structures of Direct Democracy (forthcoming Brill), many journal articles, and is editor in chief of Theory in Action, an interdisciplinary peer-reviewed journal.
