

Mini-Conference: Military Sociology

Organizers:

Ryan Kelty (ryan.kelty@usafa.edu)

Morten Ender (morten.ender@usma.edu)

Call for Papers

We will again be organizing a mini-conference on Military Sociology for the Eastern Sociological Society's Annual Meeting. The 2019 meeting will be held in at the Boston Park Plaza Hotel, Boston, MA, March 14-17, 2019 (mini-conference dates TBD). This year's conference theme is "Facts and Fictions: Narratives of Inequality and Difference." We are seeking papers on military issues that may reflect this theme, or more broadly, look at questions of peace and the military, diversity in the military, veterans' issues, health/mental health effects of war/service, war & conflict, etc. Theoretical and empirical papers are welcome.

SUBMISSION INSTRUCTIONS:

Those wishing to present papers in this mini-conference should submit an abstract of no longer than 250 words by October 30, 2018 through the ESS submission portal at <https://www.meetingsavvy.org/ess>. Proposals not accepted for the mini-conference will be submitted to the ESS general call for submissions.

To submit to this mini-conference, select "Mini Conference Presentation" in the "Submission type" drop-down menu. Supply your title and abstract. After hitting "Next", select the name of the mini-conference from the keyword drop-down menu.

If you have questions, please email Ryan Kelty or Morten Ender, the organizers, at ryan.kelty@usafa.edu or morten.ender@usma.edu.
